Prairie cities join information security forces

Edmonton- and Winnipeg-based information security companies team up.

IT security specialists Code Technology and Seccuris have teamed together to tackle Information Security projects in Western Canada.

Based in Western Canada, Seccuris is a provider of information security and information systems risk management solutions, with key areas of attention in the government, financial, and healthcare sectors. Seccuris' focus on information assurance is achieved through a deep commitment to education and research. This ensures that Seccuris has the capability and expertise required to deliver and reinforce protection to organizations. Seccuris is on the leading-edge of technical and governance knowledge in the information security industry.

Edmonton's Code Technology will market Seccuris professional, research, and managed security services to Albertan business and public sector organizations. Mike Waddingham, President of Code Technology has extensive experience in IT, IT security, and identity management.

"I'm excited about this new partnership, and I look forward to introducing Seccuris to the Alberta market", said Mr. Waddingham. "When seeking a service partner, I wanted to attract an expert firm with a deep corporate resume and specialized security focus. Seccuris fits that profile."

"We are very pleased to partner with Mike and his team at Code Technology. While we have been providing services and solutions to all Western provinces for many years, Code Technology's Alberta focus will allow us to increase our footprint and offer our full breadth of services and solutions to organizations across Alberta", said Geoff Besko, President & CEO, Seccuris Inc.

Under the terms of the agreement, Code will help to market Seccuris to Alberta-based customers and will also provide professional IT project managers and business analysts to meet the needs of challenging security projects in the public and private sectors.
